LEGAL INTELLIGENCE

Many Matters of Interest Around About City Hall Square.

SENTENCED TO THE PENITENTIARY

Execution Against Guy Hall's Bondsman—Decision of Judge Henckel in the Land Grabbing Case—The Andersen Case—Gone South for His Health.

In the Corporation Court yesterday Judge Henckel sentenced the following recently convicted prisoners to the penitentiary: Eddie Sale, five years; March Lee Okey, two years and six months; William Anderson, five years. In the case of Commonwealth vs. E. Guy Hall, J. P. Hall and O. M. Hall, J. P. Hall, bondsmen for E. Guy Hall, appeared and, offering no defense, execution for $5,000 was given against his property. A. M. Hall did not appear. Judge Henckel has decided void those orders made in the Corporation Court enabling certain parties from Bristol to secure deeds to several pieces of property in this city upon the payment of back taxes. Some further steps may be taken in this "land grabbing" case.

It is understood that the case of John Andersen, convicted of murder on the high seas, and sentenced to be hanged the 18th instant, will come up in the Supreme Court Monday upon motion of the Solicitor-General to have the case advanced on the docket. The question to be decided by the Supreme Court, as is well known, is whether Andersen is entitled to a new trial.

GONE SOUTH FOR HIS HEALTH.

Cleora Urquhart, arrested here, under indictment in Bertie county, N. C., for larceny, was taken to that county yesterday morning over the Norfolk and Carolina railroad by a constable, who arrived here for that purpose.

The law just passed by the Legislature prohibiting constables to serve criminal warrants in the cities, is now in operation here. It means a saving to the State of fifty cents on each warrant and a very large reduction in the constable fees. A large batch of criminal warrants were turned over to the police yesterday for service.

AMUSEMENTS.

"THE OLD HOMESTEAD."—A packed house will doubtless greet Denman Thompson when he appears to-morrow night at the Academy of Music in "The Old Homestead." The advance sale of seats has been one of the largest of the season.

The appearance of "The Old Homestead" in this city will be doubly welcome here on account of the promised appearance of the veteran actor himself. Fond recollections of the most leading role of the character is one that can reach the soul, defusing his beauty and truth, his philosophy and worth, with an art that is true to nature, and that his audiences understand and appreciate. There will be no advance in prices. Some good seats can be secured by applying early at the box office.

"BROTHER FOR BROTHER."—The Academy of Music should have a large audience next Tuesday evening when Miss Maude Granger, Mr. Sheridan Black and Mr. Lloyd Bingham will make their first appearance in Norfolk in the great English drama, "Brother for Brother." All these persons are well known and greatly admired by local theatre goers. The play, Maude Granger.

while it may appear heavy melodrama from the title, is not at all so in its construction. It follows closely after "The Lost Paradise" and that class of attractions. The New York Herald in its criticism of the original New York production, when the piece enjoyed a long run at the Star Theatre, pronounced it "the best English drama brought to this country for years. A play of excellent character and worthy of every success." Sale of seats now open. Prices 25, 50, 75 cents and $1.

THE WINSLOW SAILS

The Little Torpedo Boat Steamed Out of the Harbor Yesterday Morning.

PLUCKY TRIP DOWN THE COAST

Could Have Taken the Inside Route—The Puritan in Dry Dock—Nothing Heard from the Tug Underwriter—Believed to Be Safe—Overtime Work on the Puritan and Foote.

After waiting at her dock at the navy yard for four days for the weather outside the Capes to moderate, the torpedo boat Winslow cast off her moorings at 11:20 o'clock yesterday morning and steamed out to Hampton Roads. There was no demonstration when she passed through, her departure being known to but few.

Passing Lambert's Point the Winslow quickened her speed and made the anchorage at Old Point in about half an hour. Here she waited only a few minutes, and at 12:30 weighed anchor and started for the Capes. She has not been reported as passing out, but there is little doubt that she has done so. Observer Cronk was not at the Capes to-day, and the little craft could easily have passed by unnoticed.

There is no doubt as to her destination. It is Key West. The weather bureau has furnished her commander daily with information as to the condition of the weather off Hatteras, and one of her officers stated yesterday that she was bound for Key West.

The Winslow could have gone by the inside route, but her commander preferred deep water. Outside the Capes the wind is 24 miles an hour and a heavy northeast sea is running. Her seagoing qualities will be thoroughly tested by the time she reaches Key West. The boat makes 27 miles an hour.

Nothing at all has been heard from the tug Underwriter, which left here Thursday with the derelict "Chief" for Havana. It is positively known that she has not gone ashore between Cape Henry and Hatteras, and at Merritt's office to-day confidence was expressed that she had outridden the storm. Every precaution was taken for the safety of tug and tow before sending them to sea.

The Puritan was docked at 1 o'clock yesterday and a large force put to work cleaning her bottom. The addition to her smokestack will be completed Monday. The Steam Engineering Department is working overtime on both the Puritan and the Foote.

STILL ASHORE.

The Strand British Tramp Glendows Yet in Good Condition.

The British tramp steamer Glendows, which stranded about three miles south of Cape Henry Friday, still lies high up on the beach about fifty yards from the shore. She is yet in good condition and will probably be saved. No attempt was made yesterday to pull her off.

CHARGE OF HOUSEBREAKING.

Willie Temple Sold a $40 Overcoat for Seventy-Five Cents.

Willie Temple, colored, was arrested last night by Officers Spry and Callahan on suspicion of being the man who broke into Mr. Tazewell Taylor's house, No. 154 York street, several nights ago, and stole five overcoats and a mackintosh.

Temple had sold one $50 overcoat for 75 cents. He is an old offender and just out of jail. The police think they will railroad him this trip.

ATLANTIC CITY.

The Rev. E. E. Dudley has been conducting a series of revival meetings at Smithfield. He is expected to fill his pulpit to-day.

Mr. Lloyd Williams, of Graydon avenue, is quite unwell; also two other members of the family.

The Klondike Quartette, composed of Messrs. Hammer, McGintis, Ernest and Raymond Williams, furnished delightful music at the entertainment given by Moran Avenue Baptist church Thursday evening. This quartette is gaining a reputation for itself.

THE WORK PROGRESSING.

Work on the ice factory and cold storage plant of the Ch. Heurich Brewing company, on Nebraska street, is progressing. Bricklayers are at work on the foundation and carpenters on the frame. The contract for tin and galvanized iron cornice work has been let to W. H. Barnard & Co.

FUNERAL OF MR. CARR.

The funeral of Mr. J. M. Carr, who died Friday at his home, No. 467 Freemason street, will take place from Epworth M. E. church at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

HOLLAND'S SEA FIGHT.

Heavy Dikes Which Are Built by the Winds Themselves.

(From the Engineering Magazine.)

Appreciating the fact that the high chalk cliffs of England are no protection against the sea, the Dutch engineers did not attempt to place an artificial vertical wall against the waves and the storm tides, but coaxed the sea to deposit its sands on the shore and so build it up, rather than throw them inland, and then, hungry for more, eat into the shore. They believed it best to satisfy its appetite, but induced it to toy with the sands which its own flood currents and waves bring from other shores and from the offing depths. The sand thus deposited blows, in the gales, over the inland country. The engineers induced it to stop and built a barrier for them against the sea. One of the heaviest dikes along the coast was built by the winds themselves.

The sand formed between the flettings becomes dry in sunny weather, and the surface is blown ashore when the wind is in that direction. It was desired to build a strong dike to connect with the sand dunes. This was accomplished by setting in the sand in rows about a foot apart tufts of dune grass near by. The tufts were placed about a foot apart—simply little handfuls of grass. The place for each tuft was dug out with the hands, the tuft set into it and the sand pressed around it. The whole surface of the dry, sandy beach along the coast was covered with this plantation, and just back of it, at the highest point of the existing sandy area, one or two rows of reeds were

Last year this tremendous machine gathered together and carried to their destination more than 5,000,000,000 pieces of mail matter. It collected, too, for its maintenance, in sums the smallest known to commerce, more than $82,000,000, or nearly 90 per cent, of its total expenditures.
